

Moving: a story in three movements

Stories composed and told by Patricia Hruby Powell

In Search of Mt. Olympus (25:12)

A young dancer moves to the Greek Islands and searches for the gods and goddesses of Mt. Olympus.

The Treasure (16:46)

She moves to London to dance and finds a windfall.

One World (14:14)

She, along with her husband, moves from town to country and lives amidst wild animals.

Musical interludes: Dorothy Martirano (violin),
Armand Beaudoin (bass), Morgan Powell (trombone)

Recorded & engineered: Jon Schoenoff

Graphic design: Jan McCracken

Portrait of Patricia Hruby Powell: Jon Dessen

Thumbnail Illustrations by Patricia Hruby Powell

Audio and print duplication: Jerry Neal

Recorded at Krannert Center for the Performing Arts
Urbana, IL

Patricia Hruby Powell danced throughout Europe and the Americas speaking in her dances; she has performed as an aerial dancer, is a retreat leader, and has worked as a lithographer. Now she tells stories throughout the U.S. accenting her tales for all ages with dance. She has received national awards and fellowships for her storytelling, choreography, and writing. Her picture books are Blossom Tales (Moon Mountain) and the bilingual Navajo/English Zinnia: How the Corn Was Saved and Frog Brings Rain (Salina Bookshelf).

For booking information please contact phpowell@talesforallages.com
www.talesforallages.com
One Plus One Production
Champaign, IL 61821

© 2006 Patricia Hruby Powell